HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT

RANDOLPH, VT., JAN. 1, 1916.

To the Citizens of Randolph:

My report as Secretary of the local board of health for the year 1915 will necessarily be short, since there is very little to report. Very little contagious disease has come within our borders during the year. Seldom if ever, has there been less. What has appeared has been discovered in time to prevent its spreading very much. We have reported to the state board of health during the year 1915, 8 case of chicken-pox, 7 cases of diphtheria, 6 cases of erysipelas, 3 cases of pneumonia, and 1 case of scarletina.

Outside of the care of the few cases of contagious diseases, there has been very little work for the local board of health. The sanitary condition of the town as a whole is exceedingly good. To a very large degree we are a clean town. Nearly every one has come to appreciate the importance of a strict observance of the state laws, and also of the regulations of the state board of health respecting hygiene and sanitation. Every one seems anxious to do the right thing as far as they know. As executive officer of the local board of health. I again thank them for their assistance during the year. Our relations have always pleasant and I expect they will remain so.

Respectfully submitted,

Health Officer.

Statement of A. H. BEEDLE, Collector of Taxes

All of the taxes of 1913 and 1914 have been collected with the exception of the 5 per cent. mortgage tax which amounts to $202.75.

The above taxes due on the 5 per cent. mortgages are not paid as there is a question of their legality. The town can take such action on this as they see fit.

The undersigned have examined the accounts of the town officials and find proper vouchers for expenditures as herein reported. The net indebtedness we find is $7558.65 as against $13458.93 last year. We recommend that the same tax as last year be raised to pay up the rest of the indebtedness and stop paying interest.

Previous to 1915 the money left with the town for the care of cemetery lots went into the general fund, this money has never been reckoned as a town liability as such the liabilities of the town are $12048.13.

In addition to the foregoing reports of the Librarian and the Treasurer of Kimball Public Library, I have only to say that C. W. A. Putnam has resigned the office of Janitor after a long and satisfactory service extending from the opening of the library building up to Oct. 1, 1915. He has been succeeded by Norman C. Green. The past year has been a successful one in the history of the Library. The trustees ask for the usual amount of $800 to carry on the work for the coming year.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN FOR THE YEAR

February 1, 1915 to February 1, 1916.

The total circulation of books for the year February 1, 1915 to February 1, 1916, has been 16181, of which number 355 went to the exchange station at Randolph Center and 483 to 79 readers at South Randolph, while 98 (40, non-fiction; 58, fiction), were circulated from the collections placed in district schools. There is no report from East Randolph, as in the early spring, the store in which the branch library was located was burned to the ground, all records and all books not in circulation (some 34 in number) being destroyed. Since then there has been no branch library in East Randolph, but it is hoped that one may be established there in the near future as well as one in North Randolph. In South Randolph there has been more readers than ever before, although not so many books have been taken out. Despite these decreases, there has nevertheless been a gain in total circulation of 424 and in the circulation from the main library of 894. The daily average circulation (from the main library) during this period, when the library was open 304 days, was 51 6-19. It is gratifying to note that there has been a distinct increase in the number of books other than fiction and of children's books that have been taken out. 98 additional persons have registered for the privilege of taking books.

The experiment in extension (or branch) work mentioned in the last report has met with an encouraging degree of success. Small collections of books have been placed in such district schools as desired by them, 12 such collections having been taken by 7 different schools, with a total circulation (as noted above) of 98 for 8 collections, 4 collections being at present in use.

The use of the reading room and reference department especially by pupils and teachers of the village schools increases. Teachers, both in the grades and High School, cooperate with the librarian in making the library of greater use.

The library subscribes for 21 periodicals, 16 monthly and 5 weekly; and 2 monthly magazines are presented. 1 daily newspaper is subscribed for and 1 weekly and 1 daily are presented.

During this period, 201 volumes have been rebound and 2 volumes of "St. Nicholas" have been bound.

288 volumes have been added to the library during this period of which 172 were purchased, 2 bound volumes of magazines, 3 given to replace volumes lost by the givers, 1 previously unaccounted for and 110 gifts, as follows: The Misses Kimball, 37; Miss Harriet Wiswall, 1; C. P. Hulbert, 1; B. F. Sargent, 1; Mrs. N. W. Dewey, 1; Mrs. C. D. Sanborn, 2; Trustees Mary Baker Eddy fund, 1; Hon. J. W. Rowell, 6; Miss Kate Sanborn (New York) 1; Mrs. H. T. Johnson, 1; Homer Vail, 1; the Randolph Women's Literary Club, 38; Gilman M. Chamberlain, 14; Miss Desier C. Moulton, 1; author or publisher, 4; Gifts of magazines have also been received. The total number of volumes owned by the library is 8107.

In addition to the above mentioned gifts, a new flag has been presented by W. Eugene Kimball and certain improvements (such as the resetting of the stone steps and refinishing of certain portions of the woodwork) were provided for by members of the Kimball family. Three books-racks have been made and presented by John LaRock, Jr.

DESIER C. MOULTON, Librarian.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the School Directors and Citizens of the Town of Randolph:

It seems best to make this report cover some of the work of the entire supervisory district because the district is the unit for supervision and in the main the remarks about the schools of one town will apply to those of the other towns.

First of all I wish to thank the directors and the people, the teachers and the pupils for the hearty cooperation they have given me and also the kindly way they have received the new superintendent. Whole hearted cooperation is essential if we are to get the best results from our school system. I wish to thank the teachers also for the cheerful way in which all suggestions and criticisms have been received and acted upon.

Only one term entire has passed since your superintendent assumed office and the time has been too short to draw many conclusions and likewise too short to report much progress. The State Board of Education is required to formulate and issue a state course of study and it is expected that this course of study, or at least a good outline of it, will be issued this year so that it may be used in the schools next year. This will give much more uniformity in the school work and it will be a very essential part of the school equipment. Because of the expected issue of this course of study few changes have been made in the course of study at present used in some of the schools.

Before I had visited a single school, in fact before the schools had opened, I found that the work in arithmetic was poor. This was shown by personal inspection of the papers in this subject handed to me by candidates for free tuition in the high schools at the time they took the examinations. This opinion was verified by the average grades, by towns and subjects, which have been prepared at Mr. Stone's office. In even numbers the following are the average standings in arithmetic:

Braintree 27 per cent, Brookfield 20 per cent, Randolph town 45 per cent. In my opinion these low standings are due to the use of poor text books and not to poor teaching. The text book used last year in all the rural schools is more of a compilation of arithmetical problems than a text book in arithmetic.

Half the schools use supplementary arithmetics; have on an average 4 of these books each. Braintree has but 3 of these books. These supplementary books are not well adapted for use in a rural state like Vermont, but will be retained and used. I am not in favor of buying more of this kind when the old ones wear out as modern books can be bought for half the cost of the old books. Brookfield bought enough of the new Silver Burdett arithmetics so that it is likely that the work in this subject will be much improved. The books will cost less than $1\frac{2}{3}$ cents per pupil per year. Braintree has a few in the schools. In one case the teacher bought the books. The work in arithmetic that relates to farm life is wretchedly poor. This is due to the use of the old arithmetics which had practically no problems of this kind. Special effort will be encouraged in this subject and by the end of next year it is expected that the upper grade pupils will be able to work any ordinary problem relating to rural life. We expect to take up some live problems.

The question of text books is a very important one. The cost of good text books is low and it is bad economy to use poor ones. Most of the text books now in use are good ones, some are of the best while some are out of date. Hundreds of books have been brought from the school into the rural office. They have been sorted, repaired and placed on the shelves of the store room. These books are gradually being placed in the schools where needed. There is an insufficient supply of readers for the lower grades: the little folks wear out books faster than the older pupils. Once in a while we have to order new books to fill out the number required for the schools. Comparatively few books have been bought however. The amount of money spent for text books is a very small part of the cost of a pupil's education. In the United States it is about 2 per cent of the cost of running the schools. In the town of Randolph it is about the same. Since the cost of text books is so small a part of the total school expenses and the importance of having good text books cannot be overestimated, it is evidently unwise to handicap teacher and pupils with poor books or equipment.

Efforts are being made to improve the work in reading in all grades. Modern text books are now in use. The systems of reading must be taught as the authors intend that they should be taught if we are to get good results. By following the methods they have outlined more closely we expect to improve the reading. The three upper grades will recite together for reasons of efficiency and will read a list of books selected by the superintendent. These books include books on general literature, historical readers, farm life readers and travel. Books on hand will be used and there will be no cost except some extra work by the superintendent.

A new system of writing has been introduced: the Palmer system which is in general use in this country. This is simply a variation of the business writing which has been taught for years in the business schools. It produces results which the old copy book system was unable to do and as compared with the old copy book system formerly in use the cost is trifling. The new system costs about 2 cents per pupil per year while the old system cost about 25 cents, book cost. A few schools show a marked improvement in writing. We do not expect a rapid improvement as writing is a subject that takes years to develop. A review of the work in the other subjects will not be given because of lack of space in this report.

The supply question is one that is constantly before the superintendent. Much care has been used in purchasing supplies and I believe they have been bought at the lowest possible price. Supplies for stock are ordered only when we have an order large enough to get the lowest freight rate thereby saving on transportation charges. In buying some supplies, as for example, paper and crayon, we have been able to get jobber's prices which are lower than the wholesale prices. This is done by getting the supplies for the three towns at one time and ordering in case lots. More new blackboards should be installed; some of the blackboards was beyond repair. Slate is recommended for blackboards. Slate can be bought at the quarry for less than a good imitation and I see no reason for the use of imitation slate. The later kind of black board requires painting nearly every year and this costs time, trouble and money. This kind of board requires three times the amount of chalk that the slate requires, thereby costing three times as much for chalk while the pupils have three times as much chalk dust to breath. Slate lasts as long as the building and costs nothing after it is installed. It is very much cheaper in the end.

This supervisory district has an excellent teaching force. Most of the teachers are experienced and trained teachers. Some of the teachers have had no training but have had experience in teaching before this school year and are doing good work. I do not recommend the employment of untrained and inexperienced teachers. Why should we furnish rural schools for would-be teachers to get their experience and training when the state supports one of the best and the largest training school for teachers in our midst? With state aid we can get, well trained teachers for the same salaries that we pay our poorest teachers? I fail to see much reason for assuming a student in a large high school will be a successful teacher in a small rural school. She may have the knowledge of the subject matter but does she know how to impart it? We are fortunately located as regards the teacher supply. Many of the teachers are graduates from the Randolph Normal and of the Randolph Teacher Training Class. Many of these graduates live in this district and can and will teach for less than teachers from outside the district. The state aid law has been the means of inducing excellent, well trained teachers to return to teaching. Braintree has not as large proportion of this class of teachers as the other two towns. The average weekly salary is only a few cents lower than the other two towns.

The value of a superintendent's work is not measured by the number of visits he makes to the schools but he must keep in touch with the schools at all times by personal visits. I expect to visit every school at least six times per year. I have made that many visits to many of the schools up to the first of February. Some schools I have visited more than this number of times. I expect to make about 250 visits to the rural schools this year. The area of this district is about 120 square miles and it takes many miles of traveling to visit all the schools. For example: during the month of October my average was 40 miles per day while visiting schools. Some weeks I have driven nearly 300 miles doing my school work. I plan to spend more time visiting schools during the months that I can use the auto than during the winter. I can visit twice as many schools with the auto than I can with a team. There are many details in the administration of a school system of nearly 1000 pupils and I shall do as much as possible of this office work in the winter, thereby giving me more time to spend in the schools and spending less time on the road. In visiting school this winter I have been handicapped by finding many schools closed because of illness which necessitates going over the same ground the second time and in some instances the third time. Usually I have been able to avoid this because the teacher has informed me that her school was closed, but I have not always had this information.

The Randolph schools are getting the best results of any of the rural schools in the supervisory district. We have a good force of teachers and I hope the force may remain intact next year but it is likely that there will be a few changes. Two or three teachers will likely obtain better positions but if care is used to obtain equally good and trained teachers the loss will not be felt.

Respectfully submitted,
 GEORGE W. PATTERSON,
 Superintendent.
